I'm here, giddy with expectations yet unbelieving that this has actually and truly happening; it might take me a while to come down from my high or up from my disbelief (so many ways to look at things, n'est-ce pas??!), but I will not wait to settle down to get things moving on my end; I just hope I will be able to keep up with your pace and positive, motivating energy!

Thank you for taking me on; thank you for caring; thank you for understanding; thank you for being real, down-to-earth human beings whom have managed to hold on to their hearts and souls in a world where that is not always an easy task to realize!

Here is to my remodel!!!!!!!

ciao for now
